Saint Agnes Catholic Church

Financial Report for July 1, 2022 through June 30, 2023

Overview

The 2022-2023 fiscal year saw parish income $197,000 higher than budgeted and expenses $25,000 over budget, bringing us to a net income of $172,000. The simultaneous organ restoration, cafeteria renovation, and the parish office renovation projects have been and will be a heavier financial burden as we continue through the 2023-2024 fiscal year, but fundraising efforts are presently underway to supplement the generous giving of Parishioners & Friends of St. Agnes and so lighten the burden.

Rev. Brent Maher, Pastor

In Residence: Rev. Joey F. Angeles; Rev. Alex Harb

SAINT AGNES

Catholic Church

749 EAST BOULEVARD / BATON ROUGE, LA 70802

October 1 & 8, 2023

26th & 27th Sundays in Ordinary Time

Traditional: Eighteenth & Nineteenth Sundays after Pentecost

Latin Mass Music / Campion Missal: Asperges Me, p. 567.

Missa XI, p. 740, Credo III, p. 776. Salve Regina, p. 961.

Among the pleasant recollections of Our younger days are the Encyclicals which Pope Leo XIII used to write to the whole Catholic world as the month of October drew near, in order to urge the faithful to devout recitation of Mary's rosary during that month in particular. These Encyclicals had varied contents but they were all very wise, vibrant with fresh inspiration, and directly relevant to the practice of the Christian life. In strong and persuasive terms they exhorted Catholics to pray to God in a spirit of faith through the intercession of Mary, His Virgin Mother, by reciting the holy rosary. For the rosary is a very commendable form of prayer and meditation. In saying it we weave a mystic garland of Ave Maria's, Pater Noster's, and Gloria Patri's. And as we recite these vocal prayers, we meditate upon the principal mysteries of our religion: the Incarnation of Jesus Christ and the Redemption of the human race are proposed, one event after another, for our consideration. These pleasant memories of Our younger days have not faded or vanished as the years of Our life have passed. On the contrary, We want to declare in complete frankness and simplicity that the years have made Mary's rosary all the dearer to Us. We never fail to recite it each day in its entirety and We intend to recite it with particular devotion during the coming month.

There are current today certain schools of thought and philosophy and certain attitudes toward the practical conduct of life which cannot possibly be reconciled with the teachings of Christianity. This impossibility We shall never cease from asserting in firm and unambiguous, though also calm terms. But God wishes the welfare of men and of nations! And so We hope that men will set aside those sterile postulates and assumptions, hard as rock and just as inflexible, which rise from a way of thinking and acting that is infected with laicism and materialism, and that they will find a complete cure in that sound doctrine which experience makes more certain with every day that passes. We mean that doctrine which attests that God is the author of life and its laws, that He is guarantor of the rights and dignity of the human person. God then is "our refuge and our Redemption." . . . We also wish to ask you, Venerable Brethren, to recite Mary's rosary through the month of October with particular devotion, and to entreat the Virgin Mother of God in suppliant prayer, for another intention which is dear to Our heart: that the Roman Synod may bring many blessings and benefits upon this city; that the forthcoming Ecumenical Council, in which you will participate by your presence and advice, will add wondrous growth to the universal Church; and that the renewed vigor of all the Christian virtues which We hope this council will produce will also serve as an invitation and incentive to reunion for Our Brethren and children who are separated from this Apostolic See.

St. John XXIII

Feast Day: October 11

—Grata Recordatio ("With Joyful Recollection")

O blessed Archangel
Gabriel, we beseech thee, do thou intercede for us at the throne of divine mercy in our present necessities, that as thou didst announce to Mary the mystery of the Incarnation, so through thy prayers and patronage in heaven we may obtain the benefits of the same, and sing the praise of God forever in the land of the living.
Amen.

— Causes and Risk Factors

Causes and risk factors for oppositional defiant disorder

While the exact cause for this disorder is unknown, researchers agree that there are a number of causes and risk factors that lead to the development of ODD. The most accepted explanations include:

Genetic: Many children who have developed ODD have close family members with a history of mental illness, which is an indicator that a vulnerability to ODD is inherited.

Physical: It has been frequently suggested that deficits in the brain or injuries to certain areas of the brain have the ability to lead to serious behavioral problems among children. Additionally, chemical imbalances in the brain, as a result of abnormal functioning of neurotransmitters, are known to bring about symptoms of mental illnesses. More specifically, neurotransmitters help nerve cells in the brain communicate with each other and when they are not working properly nerve messages may not be received properly leading to symptoms of ODD.

Environmental: Finally, it is a widely accepted belief that a person's environment has a significant impacts on the development of mental health disorders such as ODD. This may be especially important because the onset of ODD symptoms occurs in childhood, making the environment in which a child is raised extremely influential. Factors such as a chaotic home life, inconsistent discipline by parents, and being exposed to abuse, neglect, or trauma at an early age can all lead to the onset of ODD symptoms.

Risk Factors:

- Family history of mental illness
- Witnessing violent or aggressive behaviors
- Exposure to trauma / abuse / neglect
- Being raised in a chaotic / stressful home
- Inconsistent parenting
- Exposure to substance use or abuse

May I have realized Dad may not change, but I could, and started therapy at 10 years old?

CLIENT NAME & I.D.: Jon "J.T." Turpin
DATE OF INTAKE: 11/28/00

May my anxiety align with symptoms of "narcissistic abuse?"

Effects on Children

If you have children who witnessed narcissistic abuse, they could also be at risk of developing mental health problems such as PTSD, anxiety disorders, or depression.^[2] They might become fearful in situations that remind them of their traumatic experiences. They might also feel angry at your spouse or the world, feel disconnected from other people, or have low self-esteem or confidence issues.

(J.T.) Mood dysphoric, affect guarded. Discussed treatment goals. JT announced that after the next pre-scheduled meeting would be his last. Stated that this can be discussed with his dad (he stated that he had discussed this with dad). Asked general questions. JT uses some advanced vocabulary, but asks if he is not sure of a word he hears. Does this to get to dad's health concerns and how this affects JT. He seemed less guarded after the discussion, affect less regimented. Played a round of checkers. He is very good and thinks through all of his moves. He was more spontaneous with conversation when not putting energy into his strategy. Reschedule 1 week.

May Dad's genetics predispose me to ODD in childhood? May Dad have a mental illness?

If so, may I have successfully withstood this without being "deviant" or "pathological"?

Jon Turpin's MMPI --2 profile was consistent with a test taken in a valid and appropriate manner. All validity scales were well within average ranges. There was no information from the validity scales indicating any attempt to appear overly virtuous or to endorse large numbers of pathological items. The Welsh Code for Jon Turpin's MMPI-2 was: 4'9+-325/81670: L/KF;

There were no indications of important psychiatric difficulties and no indications of thought disorder, hallucinations or delusions in the psychological testing. The current protocol was not consistent with significant anxiety or any somatic disorders or depression. Jon presented himself as an individual who valued social interaction and enjoy the company of others.

The most important findings in the current psychological inventory was of an angry, disaffected individual with a great deal of energy and emotional turmoil. Individuals with this type of protocol are usually seen as having important conflicts with authority, including family members. Much of the anger appears to be internalized; usually the result of conflicts which the individual feels powerless to resolve. The emotional energy appears to serve dual purposes. On one hand, he has been able to keep himself very busy and active, while at the same time harboring resentment and bad feelings about instances of perceived mistreatment and injustice, both of himself and of others.

Profiles with similar elevations are not unusual in young individuals. However the degree of upset and conflict, with few other emotional indicators is not nearly as common. Similar protocols were usually seen in individuals who have undergone important conflicts in their lives. Jon Turpin's personality testing on the MCMI-II generated the following Personality Code (: 5  6 B 4 * 6A + 8A 7 " 8B 1 3 2 ' ' // - ** - * //)

The MCMI-II was taken in a valid and thoughtful manner. The validity scales indicated no attempt to appear overly virtuous nor attempts to present himself in a very negative fashion.

There were no indications of severe personality pathology, although feelings of persecution and of being misunderstood were endorsed. There were no indications of severe thought disorders, major depressions or delusional disorders indicated. This individual did not endorse items indicative of a high level of anxiety, alcohol or drug use or dependence are some out of form disorders.

May there be indicators of being a survivor of narcissistic abuse?

The current personality testing indicated an individual who was very self-focused and tended to his own perceived needs. He presented himself as someone who was reactive emotionally and tended to see issues from his own viewpoint. The protocol presents a reactive, somewhat combative individual who feels alienated from aspects of society. Individuals with this type of protocol frequently have had difficulties with authority figures and tend to discount individuals who attempt to impose rules which they see as unjust or irrelevant. While the current protocol is not perceived as ideal for most individuals, the self-focus and energy can serve to minimize distractions from the individual's goals and intentions, allowing emotional energy to be utilized productively. However the sense of alienation and need to be vigilant against aggression by activity or self-determination is likely to be seen as arrogance or aggressiveness by others.

Individuals with this type of protocol may have little insight into their own emotional qualities. They frequently tend to stay very busy and focused and usually do not take criticism or negative feedback well. They are usually seen as very determined, willful, and usually possessing a high degree of energy. The protocol is also consistent with feelings of being misunderstood and suspicious of the behavior and motives of others. The ability to trust others is relatively limited in this individual.

2. Sense of Mistrust

As a coping mechanism, you begin to mistrust others' intentions, especially if you suffered narcissistic abuse from someone close. The abuser convinces you that your feelings and experiences are invalid and you, therefore, tend never to trust others and yourself.

3. Self-Isolation

Although abusers tend to isolate their victims, you tend to self-isolate because you feel ashamed for being abused. Victims believe that no one will understand them and self-isolate instead of seeking help to avoid the shame, judgment of their abusers.

When you self-isolate, you have no one to speak to because you think no one will understand you. This makes room for the abuser to lure you back in with kindness, fake apologies or even pretending the abuse never happened.

5. Feeling Lonely

When there's no communication with your narcissistic partner because they won't listen to you or give you the silent treatment, it can leave you feeling isolated, causing you to be vulnerable to further emotional manipulation.

Your partner may act kind, apologize or pretend nothing happened to draw you back in, a tactic known as hoovering.

Hoovering is most effective when you have no support and no one to talk to, and you doubt your perceptions of the abuse or justify it. Even worse is when loved ones tell you you're wrong and encourage you to forgive your abusive partner.

Family

That's a beautiful treasure my parents and grandparents gave me.

No matter the challenge, no matter the hardship, through thick and thin, in the end, we always have family. And my family is always ready to welcome honorary family members who adhere to our principles and we consider them a part of our clan.

You know who you are. And we are happy and lucky to include you.

Though challenges pop up, and disagreements will appear, my family clears the slate, we endure attacks where some try to drive a wedge between us and we continue to stick together "like grassy hog turds!"

Narcissistic Enablers: How to Recognize & Deal With One

Published: November 29, 2022

Updated: November 29, 2022

Narcissists are addicted to the drug of external validation, which makes them completely dependent on others to validate and make them feel good about themselves.¹ That's why narcissists often recruit enablers into their inner circles. Narcissistic enablers are typically put to work as security guards, attack dogs, damage control, cheerleaders, and clean up crews who protect the narcissist and their interests.

What Is Narcissistic Personality Disorder?

Narcissistic personality disorder (or NPD) is a personality disorder characterized by traits such as arrogance, grandiosity, entitlement, and envy.² Everyone possesses some narcissistic traits, but only about five to seven percent of the US population has clinical NPD.³ While people with NPD often appear arrogant and overconfident, they tend to care a great deal about what others think of them, and are prone to sensitivity and defensiveness.¹

Some people with NPD also display antisocial traits and behaviors, like a lack of empathy and a tendency to abuse or exploit others for personal gain. The more severe someone's diagnosis is, the harder it is for them to function, make good decisions, and form healthy, close, and lasting relationships with other people.^{1, 2, 3}

What Is a Narcissist Enabler?

Enablers are those who support and protect unhealthy people in ways that make it easier for that person to continue their destructive habits. The term has frequently been used to describe those who help sustain another person's addiction, and is closely linked to codependency and poor boundaries.⁴ Narcissistic enablers protect a narcissist from experiencing some of the consequences of their own actions, but they sometimes also attack others who the narcissist feels threatened by.

Unlike other enablers, some narcissistic enablers adopt the narcissist's abusive tactics to defend them including gaslighting, coercion, triangulation and projection.⁵ This is why some narcissistic enablers are also referred to as 'flying monkeys,' which is a nod to the flying monkeys used to do the Wicked Witch's bidding in the famous movie The Wizard of Oz. Not all enablers are like this but those who are can be almost as toxic as the narcissists they're defending.¹

Hi John! These emails do go directly to me.

I did get your voicemail yesterday and just haven't had a chance to return all of my calls as I don't work on Tuesdays. I apologize for the delay.

I do give priority to returning clients, but there are some ahead of you already on the waiting list. I would love to see all of you sooner, but I've already added hours to my week to accommodate the influx of new clients since Covid began and I just can't add more. Again, if it's urgent I can give you some referrals. I appreciate that you found it helpful when you saw me in the past and wanted to see me again, but if you truly need to be seen urgently I would refer you to people who I know are good and I've referred to before.

Again, I do apologize that I can't see you sooner.

Take care,

Linda

Hi Linda,

I wanted to reach out as soon as possible because what I just went through over the last year has really impacted me and my fiancé and my friends and family. Since you know quite a bit about my childhood it's important that I reach out to you directly, because my parents have been trying to push me, either directly, or via family members who haven't even spoken to me about the event, and hearsay harassment, and other friends they are in contact with to forcibly get a specific diagnosis of "manic" or "bipolar" to say I don't remember my entire childhood and that my father made a felony level threat. They seemed to want to force me, at any cost on my life, to recant a police report I had to make about my father's actions and threats, and/or to leave the state of Indiana.

I don't think both of those things can happen in conjunction and my expungement, livelihood, and wedding were brought up as "concerns," (control and threats in my opinion) during this harassment. and the man scared me for my life. I was trying to give him the benefit of the doubt that he didn't remember, but at this point I think maybe he's determined to ruin me, and all the things I'm being told to do seem to match up with me not getting the trust fund from my mother's estate because this man doesn't know how to accept the word "no" and seems to be trying to destroy the relationship between me and my mother.

Neither of my parents go to therapy THAT I KNOW OF and both seem to scoff at the idea, especially my father, unless they are attempting to force me to go, when I've already gone for years. But I think if my father underwent therapy with a therapist trained specifically in personality disorders, not of his choosing, that the result might be interesting.

Because of this debacle and being scared for my life after being constantly told what to do and how to live because of a trust fund I don't even know the full information about nor the name of, I started to look up information.

If I don't own property in Indiana it seems I can't claim the trust, and no one has ever told me the name of it. My sister is about to move out of state so she won't be able to claim either and I'm pretty sure she also doesn't know the name of it. If I get that diagnosis I may not have the right to defend myself from a man I'm fairly certain wants my mother's money and he scares me for my life, for my mom's sanity, and for my sister's.

My father even says he married my mother for her money as a "joke" and asked my grandfather Frederick Becker how much he would pay him to marry her.

The thing he talks or yells at me the most about and goes on about with other people is the living trust fund my parents setup, and how other people should force me to live a certain way. My life is already fine, even though I had to run in fear from this man specifically, and I still have a job worth $100,000 a year, and they were aware I wanted to move away from my parents after I realized what an awful home situation was going on.

It was almost like I was a child again, being yelled at and beaten (although just once on each) at home. This was after a post about my father, which was exceptionally harsh, but not untrue in my opinion, and if he hasn't gotten dementia, then I think he likes to break people.

Some people on my father's side of the family were in contact with me because I was very worried about my parents and reached out, and my sister, because how I was treated was so much like my childhood and so bad over the course of the year that it stressed me out and it seemed like my father was driving the abuse and blaming my mother to everyone else. People from my father's side of the family seemed to want a specific diagnosis when I was processing and trying to figure out what was going on when most of them haven't seen me since my grandmother's death on my father's side. After which my father has just gotten worse and worse, but I'm thinking he's always been this way and he's about to try and frame me because I may know what's up.

Many of the opinions he has told me throughout my life about others when I trusted him and tried to talk with him as a father about the awful things happening in my life seem like at this point that they may not be true since he's definitely lying about me to other people, including my mother. I was just very worried about my parents and even had a conversation with my sister last year that something seemed off and that we might have to think about taking care of them soon.

Such as my Uncle and Aunt Steve and Cathy Becker, Daniel Sighting, and John Engle from the school system, Ryan Honnert, who did hurt me sexually, but we were fooling around at first. Jesse Whitton told me that Ryan Honnert had told everyone I was gay, but Jesse used to walk the halls with me and stop other boys from hurting me at times.

So at this point I'm unsure if the things I've been told by a person I trusted, a person who helped form many of my opinions, are fully true.

My father has never accepted that and it honestly hurts that I don't think I can talk to either of my parents about myself at all. Also the lawyer over my gun case which my father told me was friends with the bar owner, but I think something else may have been going on, because my father talked to him one-on-one.

I reported that lawyer to the bar association because he wouldn't give me my depositions for 4 years that proved I wasn't the aggressor and mentioned that he might be friends with the bar owners. I actually had to call and yell at him to get my depositions and it makes me think that things may not have been what they appeared on the surface. It also seems like some of this whole event may have been an attempt to get knowledge into, and access to my files so I couldn't figure all of this out.

When I let my mother know about the things he was saying to me she just said "you're trash talking my husband" and doesn't seem to believe that he would say those things. She and I haven't talked about the trust until he was bringing it up with everyone else and talking about it as a form of "concern" about my life (control). But she seems to think I began the argument that he has been, in my opinion, trying to kick off for YEARS since he started in on me with, what I assume to be lies, about the trust fund many years ago. Like telling me he'd put me 10 years back in the trust fund from my sister after I asked to borrow $5,000 from him when I was depressed after being laid off at Ascension and lost some money.

Because when I got pushback from other people about the character of others that my father had told me was something else, that I had trusted him about, it made me think very hard.

My parents have now threatened and harassed my fiance because I won't speak to them and won't take the truth down. We're filing a police report, and any applicable charges. We have asked you to stop, and told you to stop.

Stop.

After this Thanksgiving & Christmas, I'm ending the cycle of abuse.

While my parents were always there for me in a way that didn't let me die or go hungry, I'll even say I never wanted. There's nothing that replaces love and acceptance from your parents. No amount of money can make up for it or change the heartbreak knowing they need professional help and have allowed their family to splinter because of their denial.

I'll start by saying I was a terror as a child from the time I was born, until 8 years old, I accidentally traumatized another child at the age of 10 and forced myself to learn to cope because I never wanted to hurt others. I was born autistic, what used to be called Asperger's, because my mother, likely due to overwhelming stress from the death of her father 7 months before I was born, carried me low. Also, when I was born, I nearly suffocated to death when the umbilical cord was cut. This is one of the main correlations with Asperger's syndrome, and as a young child, I didn't know how to cope with MANY things. I was oversensitized, couldn't sleep and screamed every night as a baby, and until I was 4.

I made the post after a buildup of frustration of trying to talk to my parents and tolerate their actions over the course of a year, and not even being acknowledged. For the entire year they treated me as if I was 15-16 again, but mostly my father, and it truly got to me and reminded me so much of my childhood that it set off my PTSD. It was so bad and I had a heart episode from stress. I finally got angry after trying very hard to tolerate my father and having a heart episode from the stress. But I wasn't able to attend the appointments for my stress echo with because of the stress and because it really did seem to be the safest option to leave the state.

I actually had to leave the state quickly to get to a location where I didn't feel like I was in harm's way or that my free will wasn't going to just be taken from me. I'm 31 years old and I've already gone to therapy over my life, and I take care of my own medical care, my job is fine and I make $100,000 a year. It worries me that I share a name with my father though I have a different middle name (he is Brent, and I am Frederick), and that our voices sound somewhat similar. I used to answer the phone for his electrical business when I was a teenager and people would think I was him.

Even after I left, my parents continued to contact friends and say they were concerned for my well-being, without telling anyone the full story even though I had told them I was moving and they saw the U-Haul. After being harassed for an entire year, and having things demanded of me and my fiancé by my parents, yelled "NO MORE" at my mother and broke a garage door opener, because I thought it was her constantly demanding my time and being off the wall. My father told me to get out, so I did, but my fiancé had walked inside and he was still saying things at me so I stepped to the doorstep to hold the door open. He said in the most serious tone and look I've ever heard "this is how people get shot" when I just stepped back onto the very entrance of the doorway so I could wait on my fiancé.

When I thought deeply about everything it seemed like every time my mother was talking to me with demands, or someone else was trying to say demands to me or act on my behalf, that it was said in the words my father would use. Demands. From people who would normally ask me or invite me and didn't understand that they'd been sending demands instead.

It makes me think that there's much more going on to my father and with my life than I ever knew, and I think my father has an extreme personality disorder.

When I was trying to move my father made a threat about the school, and just to live in the state would have taken so much effort to do with the hearsay harassment that I believe me being pushed out, by the behest of my mother, who I think has been broken,

After this event my parents tried to control via hearsay harassment whether or not I was going to buy a house or rent. I was told specifically that I should rent. That my decisions were impulsive (We had been planning to buy the house there at 9 Mulberry from them, but they wouldn't allow that, only renting even though there had been a discussion between my mother and I about the possibility of buying the house the year before) even though I had been saving cryptocurrency for months and being very stringent with any purchases not associated with this endeavor.

I'm 31, and the way they were treating me and my fiancé, Erin Golden, felt like they thought we were 15-16 again (we dated around that age as well) and gave us so much stress alongside work and planning for my wedding that it started to wear me out entirely, made her feel stressed and not like eating, and at some point before everything came to a head, I had a heart episode.

They had been demanding our time, not listening to "No" or "Please Stop" in multiple incidents. Yelling awful things at Erin and myself, and I had finally said "fuck you" to my father after taking months of him being aggressive without cause. My father had been saying things about a trust fund constantly, not only to me, but to others and saying that I should "act right" or we wouldn't get it. I don't care about the money, but he seems to be obsessed with it.

My father came by the front of my home during February and became angry while we were talking about my car accident insurance claim, then yelled "maybe it's a good thing you haven't sold your condo yet!" and threatened to kick me out.

My mother came into the house I was renting from them in April, uninvited, and in my opinion illegally, while my fiancé was there, tried to tell me how to live my life and proceed in our relationship. When asked to stop because I was working, she didn't. She wanted to take my fiancé out that night because she felt I was neglecting my fiancé because we had been sorting magic the gathering cards (which Erin offered to help with, but I admit took too long) but we had planned to spend time together the next evening. I had been working hectically all day to get all of my work done so Erin and I could spend time together while she spent the day with my mom.

She continued even after this, interrupting my ability to work (because I work remotely) and continued to insist to the point of yelling, at which point it overwhelmed me because I had said no probably 8 times, and I finally yelled at her to leave the house. To get out. She continued, told me none of her renters would speak to her like this even though she was blurring the lines between landlord and mom, and shouldn't have been yelling at me about Erin and I's relationship.

It truly hurt and overwhelmed me and I just sat down and listened to her yell until she finally left because nothing else worked and I've never raised a hand to either of my parents even though they've both beaten me. This made me very angry because it felt like I wasn't being respected in the home I was renting from them, and was the very reason I'd tried to buy the house from my parents in the first place. Because my mother especially doesn't understand personal boundaries, and my father doesn't respect me as a person, just tells me what I'm doing wrong all of the time. I do rebuke him and this seems to make him VERY angry.

After this minor heart attack and all of this constant pressure that I finally, after months, rebuked him a bit harder because he just wasn't stopping and seemed to be holding onto grudges constantly, and the stress of this was making me and my fiancé feel ill.

When we have spoken in the past I don't believe you've ever considered me to be manic, nor bipolar, and in my opinion this diagnosis would potentially remove my right to defend myself, and may also remove me from my parent's trust fund, of which I don't know much about, but my father yells at me about it often and has done so over the years whenever I've had any perceived issue with money. (I have a job that makes $100,000/yr, an 800 credit score, about $80,000 dollars in retirement, $50,000+ worth of material assets, approximately $30,000 in cryptocurrency savings, and $4,000 in my bank account)

My bank account is only this low because my parents made me sign a contract for loaning me $9,000 during my court case that if I got a felony they would take all of my assets. In a situation they screamed at me about for nearly a month instead of asking me what happened. Where I defended myself with a gun, but didn't kill the man and was just happy everyone lived. Because he stopped even though the event also scared me for my life

I keep my assets like this because my parents made me sign a contract that they would take all of my assets if I got a felony in a gun incident where I had to defend my life, that happened at Joe's Bar and Grille around December of 2016. They made me sign this contract for a $9,000 loan to bail me out and pay for a defense lawyer. Supposedly because my parents hate credit. Assets that at the time were worth about $100,000 including my condominium and car, bank account, and personal belongings.

I was arrested after the event but remained as calm as possible after though I was extremely stressed. The assailant wasn't arrested and later showed up at my fiancé's apartment and had the police called to ask him to leave. She filed a restraining order on the man later, but she and I didn't continue to date. Her name was Chelsie Thompson and I believe she may have been diagnosed with a personality disorder on the DSM-4 at a young age. It was extremely rough dating her, and at some point her grandparents called me to warn me about her, along with her ex-husband, Aaron Thompson. The assailant, Jeremy Lewis, seemed to know her when I had only met him that night and she seemed to have riled him up.

My parents seem to want to force me to go to a therapist of their choosing, which makes me very worried since I already take care of this on my own volition and I've found that my father may have lied to me many times, and to many other people about me. The hearsay was that they wanted me to say I had entered a false report when I hadn't by getting a specific medical diagnosis that would say I don't remember things correctly. When I do, and I think I've figured it out.

This was because he said "I should have gone down to the school and shot up the school administrators" when he was angry with me and after the way he's been acting it terrified me even more because he's been so off the handle lately.

Some of these actions, such as treating me very badly, talking about the family trust fund to others and how I should live my life a certain way, shutting me down during conversations, never hearing my side of things, and threatening "this is how people get shot," going around the police, and a threat regarding how he should have "shot up school administrators" some others saw and heard.

Others have seen some of how my parents treated me over the years and heard things about how I've been raised and been very angry before.

People present during some of these events or others who heard or saw some of these things were:

Erin Golden
 Joshua King-Baker
 Phillip Jenkins
 Jesse Matherly
 Jasmine Matherly
 Phillip Jenkins
 Brandi Fisher
 Jared Junkin

Two friends who used to be my emergency contacts, but didn't respect that I was already trying to make appointments with you and my primary care physician and continued to push me to let them take me in, and threatened to ID/ED me were Michael Mann, and Andrea Holwager. They only did this after my parents spoke to them first and via hearsay from these two people in contact with my parents, they convinced them that there was a case for false police reports, and that a restraining order would be frivolous (the reports weren't false, everyone who was present when the gun went missing was put on the list of suspects, but I suspected my father because he is constantly telling me "you shouldn't own guns" ever since the gun incident).

The harassment and wanting to be safe from him and the ridiculousness and abuse of my parents has prevented me from putting in any paperwork or even from getting a lawyer yet because being safe and making sure my fiancée, who was also harassed by my father, was also safe was the most important thing. I also wasn't able to get to my stress echo appointments because of this.

My father has literally scared me for my life to be near him, but seems to either be pretending he's calmed down but is still telling everyone else that everything started with me and that they need to take care of me (this is the scariest thing in the world, my parents shouldn't be taking care of any children even, and I'm a 31 year old adult) and may be trying to still find me and force me to recant. People are still asking where I've gone and I just say "a safe location" because I'm truly afraid for my life, personal freedom and safety from Jon B. Turpin and Linda B. Turpin.

They would know things about my life that might let them trick people into allowing them access to my personal information. To clarify, I wasn't beaten this time, but when I was a kid, each of my parents beat me at one time. I felt in fear that things were going to escalate there again because it seemed like my father constantly wanted to fight me.

No one they speak to hears the other side of the story (mine and the witnesses) even though witnesses were present, police reports were made, and I'm still waiting on a call from a lawyer.

It seems like the family only thinks I just got angry, and I believe my parents, my father mainly and my mother because she is controlling but possibly at his behest, were trying to force me into a therapist of his choosing within his sphere of influence.

HOWEVER, I didn't hear them say that directly, and it was HEARSAY from Michael Mann and Andrea Holwager, who didn't force me to do anything, but were VERY insistent I go to a therapist for a diagnosis of bipolar.

Because my parents do scare me because of my childhood, I did decide to move out of state, because my fiancé lives outside of state anyway, just so I wouldn't have to deal with this anymore, and it seems like maybe this is designed to make me appear to be something I'm not. Even though my job is still fine and my assets are still intact.

My father has said directly to my face "You need to be institutionalized" many times, and has also called me "bipolar" after he gets angry I ask and tell him to stop, like any adult person should be allowed to do.

His sphere of influence is quite large as a wealthy business and land owner and I'm not even sure what to do besides get a lawyer because it seems like since my mom won't take me out of the will that my life has been intentionally awful in many ways to set me up for failure.

Regards,

Jon F. Turpin

It may be likely that my mom is something like... maybe histrionic, and that he is possibly slipping into the start of dementia. That's VERY possible and since they've always been controlling and verbally abusive, this might just be the culmination of all of that together coming out in the most awful of ways.

Him caring about not being poor, and my mother afraid of being alone. But it seems like neither of them can admit faults anymore and it not only was scary but very tragic and I've always wanted to make sure that I don't end up having the values they're embodying now.

But It really made me, and my fiancé feel completely awful watching and experiencing them treat me, and her, both adults of 31 and 29, in this way. So we decided to just move away sooner for safety and that seemed to be basically unacceptable to my parents. Which really scared me and intimidated her because getting away from them seemed to be the only healthy option and was the one they seemed completely intent on preventing, even if they had to try and forcibly take over my personhood before our wedding.

The push to see a psychiatrist without the ability to be in the state to take care of my own medical care without having them push me over something I already handle myself and would gladly do with a psychiatrist NOT of their choosing isn't just hearsay.

I would like you to refer me to a psychiatrist that is not within the sphere of influence of my parents, so I may visit them before they try to do any more controlling stuff and I plan to remove them from my life, but I'm afraid to do so before I can see one for myself since they won't see one for themselves and seem to be driven to take the rights of a grown man away from him and may have been trying to do so all my life.

Thank you for your time, sincerely

To be honest I just want away from my parents because of how my fiance and I were both treated. When I finally got angry and broke a garage door opener and yelled, which I never do, I've been under extreme pressure in my life and don't blow up. Except for when I'm around the two people who can't even acknowledge me as a person...

The things that happened in person were already reported to the police and I think it's healthiest to just stay away from my parents because I feel they've really made my life hard, are super controlling, and it's sad, but I wish I'd never sold my condo and moved back home at all.

Not everyone in the list saw everything, just bits and pieces of the whole event and they may not have the same opinion, but my parents take no accountability for it.

And that really hurt. A lot.

And then on top of that, I was told by one of my now ex-friends, Jared Junkin, that he may be looking at fictional child porn. I haven't seen it, though I did see him looking at questionable cartoon porn called hentai when we were kids and thought it was a phase. I was into porn as a kid after the stuff with Ryan Honnert and my parents also didn't do well with connecting with me. One was super controlling and one always worked.

This guy has been a good friend and had a similar childhood, it just seems like we took separate paths, and I thought he was just stuck in a rut.

So when he first talked to me and said he was looking at 'lollicon' I figured he still had a cartoon porn addiction and told him he should get into therapy.

But recently he told me things that have greatly concerned me, and made me feel disgusted. I really didn't want to believe it but when I found the actual definition I think he may actually be doing something very disgusting and maybe illegal.

I think Jared is actually looking at fictional child porn and I reported him to the cybertip hotline, which hurt me even more to do because I can't condone that. It seems like I went to therapy and have continued to find myself and grow up bit by bit, painfully and with many mistakes, but Jared didn't, or can't, and never had or took the opportunity for therapy, and now it's too late.

I was already doing so, but I'm moving moving out of state to be with my fiance instead of around this environment because it's just not healthy.

I don't want my parents, or Jared around my future family, which hurt very bad because I really wanted to see the best and make the best of things but I'm disgusted with my parents and I'm disgusted with Jared even more if he is looking at what he's described.

And I'm also extremely disgusted with myself for screaming at my mom, though I was genuinely afraid of my father because he doesn't seem to be able to stop it anymore.

The things and threats he's said to me and the nasty things Dad's said to my fiancé this year were so mean, and mom was so overbearing I just couldn't take it. But he did lose his mom this year when he finally made her feel overwhelmed and intimidated, made both of us feel awful from the stress, and my responses to them assumed they were still all there even though I came home to try and help.

All my life I've tried to be the son they could be proud of, look up to, and count on, but I don't know if they can ever see me as an adult.

Now I have to give up someone who used to be a friend, one that I thought was doing ok, but definitely isn't, at all. One who may have done some very bad stuff.

But I think all of these things are the only healthy option, and I just hope each of these people will understand they're not healthy before they go even further downhill or do something worse.

Just like I realized the environment wasn't healthy and left, even though I did it wrong by finally getting so angry.

I was looking forward to my future family and I felt much more concerned about what kind of environment they will have now that it's not just me and all of these things scared the hell out of me, because remembering my childhood and young adulthood I feel lucky to have even made it this far.

And all I've ever wanted is a family that doesn't go through these things, that is safe under their own roof, and from people around them who could be dangerous to them.

So my mother doesn't seem to understand at all why I had to leave and why I'll have to cut my parents off, and I imagine Jared won't understand either.

But getting distance from each of them truly does seem to be the only good thing to do.

This year has been truly terrible and I thought I had been through hell before, but this one has been heartbreaking, and disgusting. All leading up to Erin and I's wedding that we want to be one of the happiest days of our lives and it seemed like everyone, me included, lost track of that because of the terrible environment.

Hi Jon.

I'm sorry it's taken me so long to get back to you. I hope you saw under my signature that I don't look at this email account daily, and also that it's not for any detailed information, which you shared a lot of. I unfortunately am not able to do therapy via email.

I did see that you asked for a psychiatrist. I refer most to Muhamid Munir at Harmony Medical Associates out in Fishers. Again, I'm so sorry that you are struggling right now. I still am not able to see you for several months as I just don't have any openings in my schedule and do have a very long wait list.

I would suggest trying Dr. Munir, or checking with your insurance or EAP for a referral, or your PCP.

Take care and good luck!!

Linda

Due to my new residency would you recommend any psychiatrists in Louisiana?

If not I can check with Dr. Munir.

Hi Jon,
I'm not aware of any practitioners in Louisiana. I'm not sure if Dr. Munir's license allows him to see people outside of Indiana. Mine only allows me to see people who are physically in the state I am licensed in, which is only Indiana. I would check with your insurance, or if you have a PCP already I would suggest getting a referral from them. Take care and good luck in your new state!

Hi John,
Unfortunately the law states that my clients have to physically be in the state that I am licensed in. So if you're not physically in Indiana I cannot see you. And it's still several months until I would be able to see you. I appreciate very much that you found therapy sessions with me to be helpful, but I do want to remind you that there are many skilled therapists out there who would be able to help you. I would again suggest you contact your insurance or PCP for some local names and then call some to interview them for a good fit. I do know that nationwide therapists have been overwhelmed with referrals, so you are likely to find a wait still, so the sooner you call the sooner you will be able to be seen.

Good luck in your search!

Happy New Year!

Linda

If you need the records for a new provider, you can sign a release with them and I can send them a copy. I've never had a client request their own records-I'll have to look at the protocol for that. I know I will need something in writing from you, and it might possibly need to be notarized. There is a fee for me to make copies- that depends on how large the chart is. Also, I can't remember exactly how long it's been since you've been here (I know it's several years at least), but if it's been more than 7 years there's a chance that I no longer have it. I'll have to check and see.

Take care,

We're taking my parents to court. You may get called. Should we attempt to meet and have some current sessions beforehand to continue where we left off after the gun incident? Or leave as-is?

Either scenario may end in a subpoena, so it's a bit moot, but, respectfully, I thought you should know.

Hi Jon,
Sorry for the delay - I've taken some time off and am still catching up with calls and emails.
It sounds like you're currently looking for a therapist who might be able to help with your court case or do a court evaluation. I don't do either of those, and I think it would be helpful for you to use someone who has that expertise. Your attorney should have some referrals.
If you have shared your records that I sent to you with your attorney and they would like to speak to me, I'll need a signed and notarized release of information and then can answer any further questions they might have. As it's been 6 years since we last met, I don't think I have any information to add that's not already in the record.
Best of luck to you,
Linda

No, the first part of this issue is already resolved and reported to law enforcement. This involves the bad convictions I shouldn't have had and $250,000 in lost wages caused by my parents and how they treated me during my gun case that is now expunged... during which you were my therapist and I told you about some of the things with my parents then. As is documented in the files.

It's not a "here's my current therapist on the stand" situation. This is historical and involves my Dad trying to cut me out of inheritance using any excuse.

It would probably be "Are these your official therapy notes?" - "yes"
"Are you his current therapist?" - "no"

"Would you believe J.T. had/has (C)PTSD from what he's been through?"
"[your opinion]"

"Do you, as a professional, believe his prior lack of insight may be due to attempts to appease a parent?"
"[your opinion]"

"Would J.T.'s anxiety possibly be brought on by having no support from a parent?"
"[your opinion]"

"Were you aware that J.T.'s parents were using his own home, car, and an inheritance asset to threaten him against his 5th amendment rights to due process?"
"[your answer]"

"If this is true, would you consider one or both of J.T.'s parents to be mentally unsound?"
"[your opinion]"

If you've seen the Britney Spears and Kyle Rittenhouse public cases...

Hi Jon,
I do understand what you're looking for. However, I cannot give you a current diagnosis as I haven't seen you in 6 years. I also cannot speculate on your parents being "mentally unsound" as I have never met them. And, as I haven't seen you in 6 years, I will not be able to draw conclusions that were not stated in the notes on your past mental health issues. Again, it seems it would be in your best interest to speak to your attorney and get a referral for a therapist who specializes in court evaluations, and who can comment on your current mental health.

I do also want to make sure you are aware that when I am subpoenaed, I do charge my full fee for an entire day to be paid in full prior to my appearing, and I do also charge fees incurred for travel and parking. That's $140 an hour for 8 hours, plus the travel fees. This is standard for therapists to do this. Therefore, it might be in your best interest to share my notes and this information with your attorney before subpoenaing me.

Take care,
Linda

If this doesn't get cleared up, I'm not going to the wedding. Because I'm not going to bring bad vibes to your occasion.

I understand

She said she's going to call you back, I just don't know if it will take her the rest of the day, or maybe tomorrow

The first thing I want you to know, is I forgive you.

I forgive you for resenting me since I stole money from your wallet. I forgive you for resenting me when I stole from Meijer. I also forgive you for holding onto the hatred at the school and resenting me for walking away.

Dad matches DSM-5 narcissistic personality disorder.

Obv. I can't diagnose, but just get ready for the next 10 years.

11:06 AM

Get ready to hear from father and mother that they think I should be in a mental institution even though my father has been gaslighting me for a year.

He's going to leave out the part where he intimidated Erin.

He also won't mention that he has accused me of extorting him, not loving you or mom, told me I'm a drug addict, criminal who shouldn't be allowed to own guns, and that he continued to sit outside 9 Mulberry and try and corner me alone after the police told him to stop.

Pretty sure he stole my gun Alexis. I just can't prove it, but he's been obsessed with taking them from me, so... with how he's acting it would make sense

Dad is... truly... not ok.

Like... his chemo probably started this, but if he doesn't get into a doctor soon, and probably therapy (which they say I should do like I don't already) then I'm pretty sure he goes off the deep end soon.

He's been talking about shooting up the school administrators again without being asked or prompted about it and damn near wouldn't let me move out even after the police had to speak to him when my gun went missing.

This stress actually gave me a heart attack. I forgot how genuinely terrible this was when we were kids until a year of this shit set off my PTSD again.

Something is really wrong with him and he's completely unwilling to see medical professionals about it.

Back then it was mostly mom and menopause, but this time it's Dad.

In the most vicious, nasty ways, like accusing me of extorting him and mom, saying I'm cut out of the will... acting like Steve Becker... and of course inevitably, because he's losing it after Mamaw has died and he has no outlet or "therapy" anymore.

He's apparently not depressed about Mamaw... and was telling me I was insane before I ever broke the garage door opener.

Get a new place- rented or whatever. Get married, enjoy time with Erin. Stop talking to mom or dad unless if it is absolutely necessary. Don't even go over for dinner- tell them you cannot at the moment due to your well-being.

Take time to heal and be happy.

Dear J.T.,

Thank you for volunteering your time at Cope Environmental Center. CEC is a not-for-profit natural resource education organization dedicated to promoting the sustainable use of the earth's resources through education, demonstration, and research. We rely on our volunteers every day as we work toward fulfilling our mission.

Your involvement in the first year of the Junior Ranger Volunteer Corp Program was greatly appreciated. Your various help with summer programs, grounds and facilities tasks, gardening and animal care made a big difference in the lives of several children, not to mention all of the CEC staff members. The children who attended camps looked up to you as a role model and you filled the role very well. Thank you for your time and dedication. Your 110 hours of volunteer service this year made a big impression of the staff, board, and program participants of Cope Environmental Center.

We look forward to your continued volunteer support throughout the year and during the summer months. The Junior Ranger Volunteer Corp Program will be even better next year and we look forward to seeing you at the next training in May 2005.

Thank you for your time,

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Turpin
522 West Maple Street
Cambridge City, IN 47327

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Turpin:

On or about Tuesday, October 18, 2005, a student at Lincoln High School approached Mr. Garry Layman with information pertaining to your son, Jon "J.T." Turpin. This information created reasonable suspicion for the administration of Lincoln High School to question your son about the alleged incident and his participation as an athlete at Lincoln High School.

On or about Monday, October 24, 2005, Mr. Layman and I questioned Jon "J.T." Turpin concerning the incident. During this meeting, Jon "J.T." Turpin refused to answer questions concerning the accusations. Jon "J.T." Turpin told Mr. Layman and myself that the incident was "none of our business". Jon "J.T." Turpin also reported he would not be participating in a spring sport.

At the conclusion of a track team call-out meeting on Wednesday, February 22, 2006, I learned that Jon "J.T." Turpin intended to participate for the Lincoln High School track team.

On Thursday, February 23, 2006, I contacted Mr. Turpin by phone requesting a meeting about the incident. Mr. Turpin responded with accusations concerning my motives in investigating this incident. Mr. Turpin claimed, "You are only making an issue of this incident due to my filing for the Western Wayne School Board." I would like to remind Mr. Turpin that the incident was investigated earlier in October, 2005. Again, I am requesting a meeting with you to ascertain the facts concerning the alleged incident. At this point, I need to remind you that the Lincoln High School athletic policy on page #43 states:

Conduct of athletes during school, after school, on road trips, etc. will be of such a nature that brings credit to the athlete, the team and the school. Athletes represent Lincoln High School Athletics 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Poor conduct may result in suspension from athletic competition, at the discretion of the athletic council. This rule will be enforced 365 days a year, including during, before, and after school hours. (Rule #5)

Generally, courts across the country, have set more precedents upholding this standard of conduct for participants in extra-curricular activities. Again, I implore you to meet with me to discuss the circumstances behind this event. If this meeting does not occur, I have no choice but to take the details provided by the varsity winners to the Lincoln High School Athletic Council for consideration. You may contact my office at 478-5916, extension #210 to arrange a meeting to discuss the incident.

Dear Jon and Linda Turpin,

The Athletic Council met to consider the punishment for the incident that had been reported to the school, involving your son J.T. Turpin, at the Meijer Department store in Richmond, Indiana on or around October 2005. Based on the information that was presented, the Athletic Council chose to take no action against J.T. in regards to this incident, at this time. If additional information becomes available, the Athletic Council would review the new information at that time.

Should you have any questions or wish clarification on any of the actions taken please contact me at 478-5916.

Sincerely,

Rob Bills
Athletic Director

August 30, 2005

On Thursday, August 25, 2005, a meeting was held in my office concerning J.T. Turpin's graduation progress. Mrs. Linda Turpin, Mr. Jon Turpin, and Ms. Suzanne Glazer were in attendance. As of August 30, 2005, J.T. Turpin had accumulated 33.5 credits toward the requirements for an Academic Honors Diploma. During the 2005-2006 school year, J.T. will be able to accumulate 18 credits toward the Academic Honors Diploma.

Mrs. Turpin indicated J.T. is planning on taking Pre-Calculus at I.U. East. He intends to enroll in M125 (Pre-Calculus Mathematics) and M126 (Trigonometry) to acquire another two math credits to satisfy the six math credits needed for the Academic Honors Diploma. Mr. Sighting asked Mrs. Turpin to provide a course syllabus for both classes to check the courses alignment with the Indiana Academic Standards. Mrs. Turpin indicated she would obtain a course syllabus for both courses for Mr. Sighting. Ms. Glazer audited his transcript and found J.T. needed two credits in a Fine Arts course to qualify for the A.H.D. The following options were outlined as courses J.T. could enroll in to satisfy this requirement:

- Drawing 1-2
- Intro to 3D Art
- Intermediate Chorus
- Band

J.T. will also need to complete a semester of Government and Economics in order to satisfy all the requirements of an Academic Honors Diploma.

There exists some confusion on J.T.'s classes taken during the 2002-2003 school year. During the 2002-2003 school year, J.T. took four classes in the high school and four classes in the middle school. In conversations with the Department of Education, Mr. Sighting was told that awarding credit for the four high school classes during the 2002-2003 school year was a local decision. Mr. Sighting nor Mrs. Turpin are able to obtain anything in writing from the Department of Education concerning the decision to award credit to the classes during the 2002-2003 school year. On Thursday, August 25, 2005, Mr. Sighting emailed Mrs. Andis from the Indiana Department of Education about the credit situation. This could impact J.T. and result in the need to take an additional two English credits. If an additional two English credits are needed, Mr. Sighting agreed that J.T. could enroll in Speech and English Composition at I.U. East to satisfy the English credit requirement. J.T. might also have to retake a year of Spanish pending the D.O.E.'s response to our question. J.T. might also have to take two more Science credits pending a negative response to the classes taken during the 2002-2003 school year.

Mr. Sighting also emphasized the possibility that J.T. might need to enroll in Physics. J.T. currently plans to pursue a computer science degree at Purdue University. Mr. Sighting suggested that Mrs. Turpin call Purdue University and speak to an advisor in the computer science department to inquire about J.T.'s need to complete Physics. Physics seems to be a requirement in most engineering programs. Mrs. Turpin indicated she would contact Purdue concerning this matter.

Hey Duane, thanks for getting back to me! I was in your psychology 101 course and you had us test our short term memory in the front of the lecture hall. You'd see how many numbers we could memorize in ~10 seconds and I was able to get to, I believe, 9 without a memory trick.

We also went over the material regarding Phineas Gage and the spike that went through his frontal lobe in your class. You had approached me later at the bottom of some stairs and asked me if I wanted to switch my major and I only declined because I was more than halfway through my computer science major.

Does any of that ring any bells?

Duane Lundy · 9:59 AM

That sounds very familiar. It looks like you are making that computer science major work for you. I'm glad you remembered all that 101 content.

ORDER ON DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR PARTIAL SUMMARY JUDGMENT

This matter comes before the Court on defendant's, Western Wayne School Corporation ("Western Wayne"), Motion for Partial Summary Judgment. Plaintiffs, Jon Brent Turpin and Linda Becker Turpin (collectively, the "Turpins"), filed this lawsuit individually and on behalf of their son J.F.T. ("JT"). The Turpins contend that JT was subjected to verbal and physical abuse in Western Wayne Schools stemming from sexual orientation discrimination. The Turpins bring three federal claims in this suit, one based on Title IX of the Education Amendments Act of 1972, 20 U.S.C. §§ 1681-88 and the other two based on 42 U.S.C. § 1983 predicated on violations of the Due Process and Equal Protection Clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment. The Turpins also bring a negligence claim under state law against Western Wayne. The Turpins make additional state law claims against the parents of one of JT's alleged abusers. Western Wayne argues that it is entitled to summary judgment on the Turpins' Title IX and § 1983 claims. Western Wayne does not seek summary judgment on the negligence claim but requests that the Court retain jurisdiction over it in the event that the Court disposes of the federal claims. For the following reasons the Court concludes that Western Wayne's Motion for Partial Summary Judgment is GRANTED.

I. BACKGROUND

The Turpin's son, JT, attended Western Wayne schools for most of his pre-college educational career. During his attendance he was subjected by other students to several incidents of physical and verbal harassment. Prior to Western Wayne's summary judgment filing, the Turpins claimed in both their Complaint and their discovery responses that the harassment JT endured stemmed from the perception his classmates had of his sexual orientation. Compl. ¶ 24; Def.'s Ex. 5, at 3 (Pls.' Resp. to Interrog. 4); JT's Dep. at 35. After Western Wayne's summary judgment filing, the Turpins filed several affidavits and amended their deposition responses to indicate that JT was the subject of harassment because he did not fit the gender stereotypes held by his classmates. See Pls.' Ex. 1 ¶¶ 2-3; 2 ¶ 4; 4 ¶ 5; 5 ¶ 6; 12.

The parties agree that JT endured several abusive incidents, but they disagree as to the specific details of some of them. Def.'s Ex. 5 (Pls.' Resp. to Interrog. 5, 6); Def.'s Br., at 8-9. The parties primarily dispute how Western Wayne responded to the harassment. Western Wayne asserts that it was difficult to address the harassment systemically because JT was harassed by so many different students. Def.'s Ex. 1 ¶ 8. Western Wayne, however, contends that it addressed the individual students involved in discrete incidents and, further, it contends that once the school handled a student's inappropriate behavior individually, the student did not typically re-offend. Id. Western Wayne further asserts that it provided JT with a variety of accommodations, including a faculty escort in the hallways, allowing him to leave class five minutes early, and requiring teachers to monitor the hallways that JT frequently passed through in order to help him avoid harassment. Id. at ¶ 7. The Turpins insinuate that JT's abusers were never actually punished. Pls.' Ex. 1 ¶ 6. The Turpins further claim that any accommodations Western Wayne provided JT for his safety were not well executed and not effective. Pls.' Ex. 1 ¶ 11. After reducing his course work at Western Wayne and taking many of his classes at a vocational center, JT eventually graduated.

II. STANDARD

As stated by the Supreme Court, summary judgment is not a disfavored procedural shortcut, but rather is an integral part of the federal rules as a whole, which are designed to secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action. See Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 327 (1986); see also United Ass'n of Black Landscapers v. City of Milwaukee, 916 F.2d 1261, 1267-68 (7th Cir. 1990). Motions for summary judgment are governed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56 (c) ("Rule 56(c)"), which provides in relevant part:

The judgment sought should be rendered if the pleadings, the discovery and disclosure materials on file, and any affidavits show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

Once a party has made a properly-supported motion for summary judgment, the opposing party may not simply rest upon the pleadings but must instead submit evidentiary materials which “set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e). A genuine issue of material fact exists whenever “there is sufficient evidence favoring the nonmoving party for a jury to return a verdict for that party.” Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986). The nonmoving party bears the burden of demonstrating that such a genuine issue of material fact exists. See Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-87 (1986); Oliver v. Oshkosh Truck Corp., 96 F.3d 992, 997 (7th Cir. 1996). It is not the duty of the Court to scour the record in search of evidence to defeat a motion for summary judgment; rather, the nonmoving party bears the responsibility of identifying the evidence upon which she relies. See Bombard v. Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc., 92 F.3d 560, 562 (7th Cir. 1996). When the moving party has met the standard of Rule 56, summary judgment is mandatory. See Celotex, 477 U.S. at 322-23; Shields Enters., Inc. v. First Chi. Corp., 975 F.2d 1290, 1294 (7th Cir. 1992).

In evaluating a motion for summary judgment, the Court should draw all reasonable inferences from undisputed facts in favor of the nonmoving party and should view the disputed evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. See Estate of Cole v. Fromm, 94 F.3d 254, 257 (7th Cir. 1996). The mere existence of a factual dispute, by itself, is not sufficient to bar summary judgment. Only factual disputes that might affect the outcome of the suit in light of the substantive law will preclude summary judgment. See Anderson, 477 U.S. at 248; JPM Inc. v. John Deere Indus. Equip. Co., 94 F.3d 270, 273 (7th Cir. 1996). Irrelevant or unnecessary facts do not deter summary judgment, even when in dispute. See Clifton v. Schafer, 969 F.2d 278, 281 (7th Cir. 1992). “If the nonmoving party fails to establish the existence of an element essential to his case, one on which he would bear the burden of proof at trial, summary judgment must be granted to the moving party.” Ortiz v. John O. Butler Co., 94 F.3d 1121, 1124 (7th Cir. 1996).

III. DISCUSSION

The Turpins make federal claims for relief under two separate statutes. First, they claim that JT was discriminated against solely on the basis of his sex in violation of Title IX of the Education Amendments Act of 1972, 20 U.S.C. §§ 1681-88. Second, the Turpins claim damages under § 1983 predicated on alleged violations of JT’s Due Process and Equal Protection rights. The Court will address each of the Turpins’ statutory claims in turn.

A. THE TURPINS’ TITLE IX CLAIM

Title IX provides that “[n]o person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity.” 20 U.S.C. § 1681(a). “Although the only remedy expressly authorized by the statute is the termination of the recipient’s federal funding, the Supreme Court has held that Title IX contains an implied private right of action for money damages.” Doe-2 v. McLean County Unit Dist. No. 5 Bd. of Dirs., 593 F.3d 507 (7th Cir. 2010). When the Supreme Court determined that Title IX’s prohibition against discrimination was implicated in cases involving sexual harassment, it relied on a case decided under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. See Franklin v. Gwinnett County Public Schools, 503 U.S. 60, 75 (1992) (citing Meritor Savings Bank, FSB v. Vinson, 477 U.S. 57 (1986)). Since then, federal courts have used Title VII precedents to inform their analyses of sexual harassment and discrimination claims under Title IX. See, e.g., Doe v. Univ. of Ill., 138 F.3d 653 (7th Cir. 1998), vacated on other grounds, Bd. of Trustees v. Doe, 526 U.S. 1142. The Seventh Circuit has consistently held that discrimination based on one's sexual orientation or perceived sexual orientation is not actionable in the Title VII context. See Howell v. N. Cent. College, 320 F. Supp. 2d 717, 722 (N.D. Ill. 2004) (collecting cases). The court has drawn a line between harassment based on the plaintiff's sex as a result of gender stereotyping and harassment motivated by a plaintiff's sexual orientation. See Hamm v. Weyauwega Milk Prods., 332 F.3d 1058, 1062 (7th Cir. 2003). The former is actionable while the latter is not. Id.

Western Wayne claims that it is entitled to summary judgment on the Turpins' Title IX claim because it is based on harassment stemming from JT's sexual orientation. Initially, the Turpins premised their claim entirely on the notion that the harassment that JT endured was motivated by his classmates' perception of his sexual orientation. Their position did not change until about a month after Western Wayne filed its Motion for Summary Judgment and supporting briefing. See Dkt. No. 119 (containing affidavits and deposition errata sheets dated from March 27, 2010, to March 29, 2010, and filed on March 29, 2010). Then, the Turpins filed affidavits and amended their deposition testimony to reflect a new theory that JT was subject to harassment because he did not fit into the definition of a stereotypical male held by his peers. Pls.' Ex. 4 ¶ 5.

Along with their own affidavits, the Turpins filed an affidavit of a previously undisclosed witness, Troy Davis, to support their theory that JT was discriminated against based on his failure to fit into a gender stereotype. Western Wayne argues that the Davis affidavit should not be considered on summary judgment due to the Turpins' failure to disclose Davis as a witness according to Rule 26(a). Rule 37(c)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure states that a party's failure to provide information or identity of a witness pursuant to Rule 26(a) prevents the party from using that information or witness to supply evidence on a motion unless the failure was substantially justified or harmless. In the instant case, neither are true. The Turpins put forth no evidence to show why Troy Davis was not disclosed as a witness until well past the deadline. The closest that they get is in Davis' affidavit where he claims a "change of heart" regarding JT. As a result, he decided to come forward just after Western Wayne filed its Motion for Summary Judgment indicating that the legal theory on which the Turpins were proceeding was unsound. Likewise, the late disclosure was not harmless. It prevented Western Wayne from access to a witness that could potentially salvage the Turpins' Title IX claim. Therefore, the Court will not consider Troy Davis' affidavit for the purposes of summary judgment.

The Turpins also point to the affidavit of another late appearing witness, Scott Allen, whose testimony supports the gender stereotype based discrimination theory of the case. Pls.' Ex. 5 ¶ 7. Allen, however, refers to the abuse as "gay bashing," and his testimony alone is not enough to create a triable issue of fact on the motivations of JT's abusers. See Pls.' Ex. 5 ¶ 2.

The Turpins also argue that their deposition testimony concerning the cause of the abuse JT suffered should be stricken for lack of personal knowledge. Although the Turpins could not possibly know what exactly was in the minds of JT's abusers, they were reasonably situated to form an inference as to the cause of JT's abuse. Not only were they exposed to the narrative surrounding the abuse through their son, they spent quite a bit of time at the school and they frequently spoke with the administration concerning the abuse.

In other words, their inferences as to the cause of the abuse were “grounded in observation or other first-hand personal experience.” Visser v. Packer Engineering Associates, Inc., 924 F.2d 655, 659 (7th Cir. 1991). Regardless, the Turpins ask this Court to accept their affidavits stating their new position on exactly the same issue while striking their deposition testimony. The Turpins cannot have it both ways. If their deposition testimony must be stricken for lack of personal knowledge, surely their affidavits must be so stricken.

At such a late date, the Turpins cannot salvage their claim from summary judgment by filing self serving affidavits and deposition errata sheets. See Bank of Illinois v. Allied Signal Safety Restraint Sys., 75 F.3d 1162, 1171-1172 (7th Cir. 1996). A party can avoid summary judgment with a statement that contradicts an earlier sworn statement only where it clarifies ambiguous or confusing testimony or where it is based on newly discovered evidence. Id. Neither of those exceptions applies to this situation. The Turpins have put forth no new evidence to support their shift in theory, and they clearly and consistently stated in their Complaint, their answers to interrogatories, and their depositions that they believed JT was harassed because of his perceived sexual orientation. See Hamm, 332 F.3d at 1062. Therefore, Western Wayne’s Motion for Summary Judgment on the Turpins’ Title IX claim is GRANTED.

B. THE TURPIN’S § 1983 CLAIMS

The Turpins assert two § 1983 claims predicated on Western Wayne’s alleged violations of the Fourteenth Amendment. First, the Turpins make a failure to protect claim based on the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. In addition, the Turpins claim that the sexual harassment JT suffered was caused by an unconstitutional policy or custom based on the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, the Turpins need to show that Western Wayne deprived JT of a right secured by the Constitution and that Western Wayne acted under color of state law. Waubanascum v. Shawano County, 416 F.3d 658, 665 (7th Cir. 2005). The parties do not dispute that Western Wayne acted under color of state law. The Court will address each alleged Constitutional violation in turn.

Western Wayne alleges, citing DeShaney v. Winnebago County Dep't of Social Services, 489 U.S. 189 (1989), that the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment does not impose a duty on the state to protect individuals from harm by private actors. Generally that is true; however, the Turpins submit their claim fits into the “state-created danger” exception to the general rule of DeShaney. The courts of appeals have inferred from DeShaney that the substantive component of the Due Process Clause imposes a duty upon the state to protect individuals from dangers created by the state itself. See King ex rel. King v. E. St. Louis Sch. Dist. 189, 496 F.3d 812, 817 (7th Cir. 2007). The state-created danger doctrine provides three elements that must be proven in order for it to apply. Id. First, “in order for the Due Process Clause to impose upon a state the duty to protect its citizens, the state, by its affirmative acts, must create or increase a danger faced by an individual.” Id. at 818. Second, “the failure on the part of the state to protect an individual from such danger must be the proximate cause of the injury to the individual.” Id. “Third, because the right to protection against state-created dangers is derived from the substantive component of the Due Process Clause, the state’s failure to protect the individual must shock the conscience.” The Turpins allege that the school’s failure to protect JT falls into the ambit of the state-created danger exception.

The Turpins’ claim fails under the first prong of the doctrine. In their brief in response to Western Wayne’s motion, the Turpins conclusorily state that Western Wayne’s alleged failure to monitor the freshman hallway despite its promise to do so, and a teacher’s failure to break up a fight where JT was allegedly targeted despite alleged notice, fulfill each of the prongs of the state-created danger exception. The Turpins point to no evidence to suggest that Western Wayne’s failure to keep its promise or intervene in the argument were affirmative acts that created or increased the danger JT faced at school. “[T]he key question in determining whether state behavior violated the victim’s constitutional rights is: ‘What actions did [the state actor] affirmatively take, and what dangers would [the victim] other wise have faced?’” Windle v. City of Marion, 321 F.3d 658, 661 (7th Cir. 2003). Even if the Court construes Western Wayne’s alleged broken promise to monitor the hallway as an affirmative action, the Turpins point to no evidence that the action created or increased the danger that JT faced. He was harassed in the hallways before the school intervened, and the Turpins point to nothing in the record to indicate that the harassment changed in nature or severity due to Western Wayne’s alleged failure to monitor. Additionally, the teacher’s failure to intervene in the fight is not an affirmative action. See id. (finding that even where police officers had actual notice of an improper sexual relationship between a teacher and an underage student, the police officers’ failure to intervene was not affirmative action). However, even if the Court did construe the teacher’s failure to intervene as an affirmative act, the Turpins point to no evidence to indicate that JT was subjected to more or different abuse than he already was subject to prior to the teacher's decision not to act. In the case at bar, Western Wayne neither created the danger JT faced nor did it do anything to make what JT already faced worse. Therefore, the state-created danger exception to DeShaney cannot apply. See id.

In support of their claim that Western Wayne should be held liable for its failure to protect, the Turpins cite a very recent case where the Seventh Circuit found that for the purpose of qualified immunity it was clearly established that a school principal violated a student's Constitutional rights if the principal "created a risk of harm or exacerbated an existing one" by covering up a band teacher's sexual abuse of female students by misleading the girls' parents, the superintendent, and other administrators. T.E. v. Grindle, 599 F.3d 583, 589 (7th Cir. 2010) (relying on Stoneking v. Bradford Area Sch. Dist., 856 F.2d 594, 599 (3d Cir. 1988)). However, Grindle is distinguishable from the case at bar because JT's injuries were caused by private actors, but the injuries in Grindle were caused by the band conductor, a state employee. Grindle, 533 F.3d at 586-87; see also Stoneking, 882 F.2d at 724 (distinguishing from DeShaney by noting that the injuries in DeShaney were caused by private actors not state employees). Therefore, as to the Turpins' § 1983 claim premised on Western Wayne's alleged failure to protect JT, Western Wayne's Motion for Summary Judgment is GRANTED.

The Turpins' final theory of recovery is premised on JT's rights under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. In order to establish liability against Western Wayne, the Turpins must show that Western Wayne's alleged discrimination against him based on sexual orientation was caused by an unconstitutional policy, custom, or practice. See Monell v. Dep't of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658, 690-91 (1978). Because the Turpin's failure to protect claim is barred by DeShaney, sexual orientation discrimination is the only possible basis the Turpins could have to allege Western Wayne's Monell liability. The Turpins appear to premise their Monell liability claim on their failure to protect theory. They do not point to any evidence in the record that would tend to show that JT suffered sexual orientation discrimination as a result of any unconstitutional policy, custom or practice of Western Wayne. Therefore, Western Wayne's Motion for Summary Judgment as to the Turpin's Equal Protection claim is GRANTED.

C. THE TURPIN'S STATE LAW CLAIMS

Western Wayne requests that the Court retain jurisdiction over the Turpins' state law negligence claim against Western Wayne for the purposes of the trial set in August. Once all the federal claims in a case have been dismissed, a district court may relinquish supplemental jurisdiction but it does not have to unless the "federal claims are frivolous and so do not engage the jurisdiction of the federal courts." See Doe-2, 593 F.3d at 513. Generally, however, where all the federal claims are dismissed before trial there is a presumption that the district court should relinquish jurisdiction over the state law claims. See Williams Elecs. Games, Inc. v. Garrity, 479 F.3d 904, 907 (7th Cir. 2007). In light of the presumption and the fact that all the federal claims in this case were disposed of on Western Wayne's Motion for Summary Judgment, the Court declines Western Wayne's request to retain jurisdiction over the Turpins' state law claims. Therefore, the Turpins' state law negligence claim is DISMISSED without PREJUDICE.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the defendant's, Western Wayne School Corporation, Motion for Partial Summary Judgment is GRANTED, and the plaintiffs', Jon Brent Turpin and Linda Becker Turpin, state law claim against Western Wayne is DISMISSED without PREJUDICE.

In addition, the Court notes that the defendants, Amy S. Good and John Doe, remain active on the Court's docket in this matter. The Court hereby ORDERS the plaintiffs, Jon Brent Turpin and Linda Becker Turpin, to SHOW CAUSE within fourteen days why their claims against Amy S. Good and John Doe should not be dismissed with prejudice pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 41(b).

IT IS SO ORDERED this 24th day of June, 2010.

At the outset of the evaluation, Jon F. Turpin, Jon B. Turpin (Jon F. Turpin's father) and Linda Turpin (Jon F. Turpin's mother) were notified of the nature and purpose of the evaluation. They were made aware that, although counsel representing the Turpin's hired the Examiner, the psychologist's professional and ethical obligation was to provide a balanced, fair examination without regard to the party who retained him. The Turpins were also informed that information obtained would be incorporated into a formal report for use in a court proceeding and that such information is not protected by standard confidentiality provisions regarding mental health records. Jon F. Turpin, Jon B. Turpin and Linda Turpin all indicated that they understood the limits of confidentiality as an exception from HIPAA standards and were willing to proceed with the evaluation under the conditions stated.

Referral:

Bryan Tracy, Attorney at Law, referred Jon F. Turpin and his parents for a psychological evaluation as part of legal proceedings from the above referenced matter. This evaluation ensued to provide psychological evaluation as an Independent Medical Evaluation of Jon F. Turpin.

History:

Note: Information reported in this section was obtained from the documents listed above and from Jon F. Turpin, and from his parents Jon B. Turpin and Linda Turpin.

Turpin, Jon
IME Report
5-27-2009

Jon F. Turpin was the elder of two children of Jon B. Turpin, 52 and Linda Turpin, 50. Jon B. was an electrician who worked at DaimlerChrysler and also had a part-time private business. Linda was a school teacher who also worked in a factory. Jon's younger sister, Alexis, was 14.

Developmental history indicated that Jon was healthy child with no important developmental difficulties. Jon reported he had a broken arm at age 6. According to Jon, he had bronchitis at an early age severe enough to cause a collapsed lung and to require hospitalization for about three days. No other significant medical issues were reported regarding Jon F. Turpin's early years.

Mr. and Mrs. Turpin reported that Jon was diagnosed with ADHD while in grade school. Jon was reported to have taken Strattera at about age 16. Jon stated the Strattera helped his concentration but caused headaches resulting in his discontinuing the medication. At the time of the evaluation, neither Jon F. Turpin nor his parents reported Jon taking other psychotropic medications. Jon did indicate that he had previously taken a medication for acne for approximately 4 months, but was not taking the medication at the time of the evaluation.

Mrs. Turpin reported that Jon was different from most children in his early years of school. She stated that in kindergarten she read Jon the Hardy Boys books and that Jon understood them and enjoyed them. She reported feeling that Jon was somewhat bored in kindergarten and first grade because he was bright and learned very quickly. As an example, Mrs. Turpin noted that Jon began playing chess in first grade and he learned most subjects easily. Even as a young student, she reported feeling that Jon never really fit in with many of the other students but he was not an unhappy child. She reported that Jon was always quite active and had problems with organization but learned very quickly.

Jon reported that he liked school in the early years and felt that he did quite well. He stated that he had a few mild problems with other students in early elementary grades and occasionally had temper tantrums. Jon stated that he was immature in his early years and physically small, but felt that he had no serious difficulties in relationships with other students.

Academic learning began with elementary school at the Western Wayne Elementary, then, he transferred to Centerville. Jon stated that he moved schools to Centerville, in part, because his mother taught school in that town. He reported that in fifth grade he did well academically but had a conflict with his teacher. Jon reported that his teacher singled him out and embarrassed him. For the second semester of his fifth-grade year he transferred to Lincoln Middle School where he felt he did well. Jon did report that he had one temper tantrum when another student stepped on his leg.

IME Report

Jon stated that in his sixth grade year, he was a very good student who took advanced classes. He took algebra with the eighth-grade students and began to be picked on frequently by these older students. Both Jon and his parents reported that he was somewhat small in stature and tended to respond verbally rather than physically. Jon reported that he was perhaps "mouthy" in response to students who harassed him verbally and physically and knocked his books and folders out of his hands in the hallways when he was changing classes. Both Jon and his parents reported that these difficulties occurred frequently and escalated over the year. Mrs. Turpin presented documents referring to numerous instances of Jon being picked on and not protected from larger and older students by the school administration.

According to Jon, he had a number of friends in sixth grade. Besides the academic work, he was involved in swimming and had a number of hobbies. Mr. and Mrs. Turpin reported that Jon did have a 504 educational plan as a result of a 504 conference. Mrs. Turpin was especially concerned that, although parents were supposed to be called whenever there were problems with Jon, the school only called one time. Mrs. Turpin stated that that Jon clearly caused a problem at the school on the occasion in sixth grade, and she went to school and had Jon cleaned up the mess he had made.

Because of the continued difficulties with Jon being verbally and physically harassed in hallways while changing classes, which Mrs. Turpin reported frequently occurred without teacher supervision, Mrs. Turpin reported (supported by documents referenced above) that she and/or her husband had frequent meetings with the principal. In sixth grade Jon was physically attacked by other Lincoln middle school students on at least three separate occasions. As a result of the injuries that their son suffered, Mr. and Mrs. Turpin took Jon to the Cambridge City Police Department on three occasions and filed charges against the students who had hit Jon, resulting in Police investigations.

During his seventh grade year, Jon started going to Lincoln High School where he originally took biology, algebra, Spanish, and honors English. In the afternoon he returned to the middle school to complete his classes and participated in the band. He stated that initially seventh-grade started out well. However, several high school students who were friends with each other began to grab and shove him, hit him, and knock his books away. Jon reported that, after talking with his parents, he reported these incidents to teachers and to the administration at both the junior high and high school. However, Jon stated that his reports and complaints were ignored and the harassment and the abuse continued. Jon reported a fight in which a student who had frequently bothered him threatened and approached him. Jon stated that he hit the other student and a fight ensued. Jon reported that he received a suspension. He also reported frequently being called names and being the brunt of other negative verbal comments by the older students, causing him to feel uncomfortable and unsafe in the school.

Turpin, Jon
IME Report

Jon and his parents decided that he would skip eighth-grade since he was already taking high school classes and because of the difficulties he encountered in the middle school. As a freshman, Jon reported that he was physically small; approximately 5' tall and weighing 80 pounds. Jon reported that he took numerous advanced classes and continued to do very well academically. However, he reported repeated problems with students pushing him around and intimidating him in the hallway. Jon stated that he went to the principal numerous times and reported other incidents to teachers, but received very little help from them.

In spite of the difficulties with other students, Jon reported that he attempted to be involved in extracurricular activities at the school. His sophomore and junior years he tried out for the tennis team. He also was involved with track and several academic clubs and activities. Jon reported that he had a number of friends, although most of his friends were not part of the popular groups.

During his sophomore year, Jon reported a number of difficulties involving verbal and physical harassment. On one occasion, Jon was physically assaulted and beaten on school grounds. His parents filed battery charges against a student who assaulted Jon. A number of other incidents were related by Jon, particularly numerous problems occurring in the machine trades class, along with his frustrations in attempting to resolve these difficulties with little or no assistance from teachers or administrators.

Jon reported that he grew approximately 6 inches and weighed approximately 130 pounds before the end of his sophomore year. He stated that he began to be less verbally reactive when other students provoked him verbally or physically. Jon was adamant that he never attempted to harass other students, and found it very difficult when he witnessed friends or weaker students being harassed or provoked by larger students. Jon reported numerous instances of harassment, confrontation and name calling by other students, and his perception that the principal,

Turpin, Jon
IME Report
5-27-2009

administration and teachers did not respond to his requests for assistance or intervention with the offending students.

During his junior year, Jon began participating in vocational classes at the Connersville Area Vocational School for part of his day. Jon was particularly interested in computers and was able to advance his computer knowledge and skills by attending classes at Connersville as well as Lincoln High School. Jon reported that because he was off the campus of Lincoln High School for part of the day, there were fewer instances of harassment and disruption, but some still occurred. Jon stated that he had no difficulties with other students at the Connersville Area Vocational School. He stated that his grades continue to be very good. He also noted that some teachers at Lincoln High School were able to manage disruptive students well, making life easier for him. (Jon particularly noted a Mrs. Casey who he stated stopped trouble as soon as it started.)

He reported an incident that began during track practice while the students were playing an ultimate frisbee game. Jon reported a confrontation with another student which resulted in Jon being severely beaten in the locker room, although he reported that he made little effort to defend himself from an individual who attacked him. As a result of this incident, assault charges were filed against the other student. Jon was particularly disheartened that, although difficulties began on the field of play, coaches and teachers did not intervene or take steps to prevent his being beaten. In addition, he reported that they offered him no treatment for his injuries, but did attend to a cut on the student who had attacked him. Jon reported that he suffered multiple bruises and several fractures which were diagnosed when he was taken for medical treatment.

Jon reported that he attended school on the day after the incident in which he was beaten. Although he was very embarrassed that the bruises and abrasions were visible to fellow students, he stated he was determined not to let his participation in a school event (Connersville Area Vocational School competition) be jeopardized by missing school.

During his senior year, Jon continued to take classes at Connersville Area Vocational School as well as at Lincoln High School. He indicated that during his senior year, a new principal was in charge of the school. Jon reported relatively few events of harassment during his senior year, but, when incidents did occur, he felt that they were handled appropriately by the new principal and resulted in fewer difficulties. Jon continued to do well academically at both educational facilities. He graduated in May 2007 from Lincoln High School.

Turpin, Jon
IME Report
5-27-2009

While in high school and subsequently Jon worked at several jobs. He worked for his father's electrical company and later worked at a convenience store in Cambridge city.

After his graduation from high school, Jon enrolled at Ivy Tech College. Jon reported that he was attempting to complete two associate degrees in computer sciences, one in computer security and the other in web making. In order to obtain the courses that he needed for these degrees, Jon attended classes at the Richmond, Indianapolis, and Bloomington Ivy Tech College campuses. He stated that he received high grades in college and hoped to pursue a degree in computer programming. At the time of the evaluation he continued to live at his parents' home and commute to his college classes.

Jon stated that he had a number of friends that he saw on a regular basis. He reported that he had recently ended a relationship with a young woman who he had dated for several months. Although he reported being very busy with school and other interests, Jon Turpin reported that his life has been going well since he graduated from high school.

Mental Status Examination:

For each of the five appointments, Jon Turpin appeared on time. He drove himself to three of the appointments, and came with his parents for the other two. He was dressed appropriately, was well groomed, and presented himself in an appropriate manner. Jon was a well-built young man, approximately 5 foot 8 inches tall with a stated weight of 145 pounds.

For each of the psychological interviews, Jon Turpin was oriented to time person place and situation. His speech was clear and fluent. Thoughts were sequential and logical, with no indication of thought process disorders, hallucinations or delusions. Jon's use of language was very appropriate.

He used complex sentences and language in describing his history and difficulties. At times his affect was mildly flat, and on other occasions when recounting difficult situations from his history, he became mildly agitated and upset. However he recognized and easily discussed his emotional state as he recounted troubling parts of his history.

Turpin, Jon
IME Report
5-27-2009

During the course of the evaluation, Jon Turpin displayed a wide range of emotions. He was usually calm and logical, but expressed upset and anger when recounting instances of mistreatment by other students during junior high and high school. He displayed visible emotional upset when discussing what he perceived as lack of fair treatment and protection from teachers and administrators. He denied any significant depression over the past year, although reported that he had mild depression after breaking up with a girlfriend. He denied suicidal thoughts in the past year, but stated that he had experienced suicidal thoughts when he was in high school, but did not feel that he could or would harm himself.

Jon described himself as somewhat impulsive due to his ADHD. However he stated that he has learned to use an electronic planner in order to help him with his complicated schedule. He denied being impulsive with money or spending and stated that he manages money well. His overall presentation was that of a bright, intense individual with a very good work ethic and a plan for his future.

At the time of the evaluation, Jon Turpin reported that he slept well, usually 6 1/2 hours per night with occasional naps during the day. He reported his appetite was good and that he was a regular eater who enjoyed a wide variety of foods. He participated in regular exercise including running and working out at the community center.

Test Results and Interpretation:

As part of the current psychological evaluation Jon Turpin was administered the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory-2 and the Millon Clinical Multiaxial Inventory-II. Both psychological inventories were taken in a quiet room with Jon as the sole occupant. Instructions read from the test instruction booklet by a skilled psychological examiner. There were no unusual circumstances in the test administration, and the psychological tests were administered in a manner consistent with valid test taking methodology.

Jon Turpin's MMPI --2 profile was consistent with a test taken in a valid and appropriate manner. All validity scales were well within average ranges. There was no information from the validity scales indicating any attempt to appear overly virtuous or to endorse large numbers of pathological items. The Welsh Code for Jon Turpin's MMPI-2 was: 4'9+-325/81670: L/KF;

There were no indications of important psychiatric difficulties and no indications of thought disorder, hallucinations or delusions in the psychological testing. The

Turpin, Jon
IME Report

current protocol was not consistent with significant anxiety or any somatic disorders or depression. Jon presented himself as an individual who valued social interaction and enjoy the company of others.

The most important findings in the current psychological inventory was of an angry, disaffected individual with a great deal of energy and emotional turmoil. Individuals with this type of protocol are usually seen as having important conflicts with authority, including family members. Much of the anger appears to be internalized; usually the result of conflicts which the individual feels powerless to resolve. The emotional energy appears to serve dual purposes. On one hand, he has been able to keep himself very busy and active, while at the same time harboring resentment and bad feelings about instances of perceived mistreatment and injustice, both of himself and of others.

Profiles with similar elevations are not unusual in young individuals. However the degree of upset and conflict, with few other emotional indicators is not nearly as common. Similar protocols were usually seen in individuals who have undergone important conflicts in their lives.

Jon Turpin's personality testing on the MCMI-II generated the following Personality Code (: 5  6 B 4 * 6A + 8A 7 " 8B 1 3 2 ' ' // - ** - * //)

The MCMI-II was taken in a valid and thoughtful manner. The validity scales indicated no attempt to appear overly virtuous nor attempts to present himself in a very negative fashion.

There were no indications of severe personality pathology, although feelings of persecution and of being misunderstood were endorsed. There were no indications of severe thought disorders, major depressions or delusional disorders indicated. This individual did not endorse items indicative of a high level of anxiety, alcohol or drug use or dependence are some out of form disorders.

The current personality testing indicated an individual who was very self-focused and tended to his own perceived needs. He presented himself as someone who was reactive emotionally and tended to see issues from his own viewpoint. The protocol presents a reactive, somewhat combative individual who feels alienated from aspects of society. Individuals with this type of protocol frequently have had difficulties with authority figures and tend to discount individuals who attempt to impose rules which they see as unjust or irrelevant. While the current protocol is not perceived as ideal for most individuals, the self-focus and energy can serve to minimize distractions from the individual's goals and intentions, allowing emotional energy to

IME Report

be utilized productively. However the sense of alienation and need to be vigilant against aggression by activity or self-determination is likely to be seen as arrogance or aggressiveness by others.

Individuals with this type of protocol may have little insight into their own emotional qualities. They frequently tend to stay very busy and focused and usually do not take criticism or negative feedback well. They are usually seen as very determined, willful, and usually possessing a high degree of energy. The protocol is also consistent with feelings of being misunderstood and suspicious of the behavior and motives of others. The ability to trust others is relatively limited in this individual.

Findings, Observations and Interpretation of Results:

A review of Jon F. Turpin's history, educational background and the current evaluation suggested with a high degree of psychological certainty that he experienced significant emotional trauma as a result of his numerous instances of physical, verbal and emotional harassment during his junior high and high school experience. The findings from the current psychological testing, the psychological clinical interviews, supported by the report of his parents, Jon B. and Linda Turpin, along with the documents referenced above, were consistent with Jon F. Turpin's reports regarding the difficult and traumatic events which occurred during his school enrollment from 6th through 11th grades at Lincoln Middle School and Lincoln High School.

While it is not possible to know how Jon F. Turpin's emotional presentation would have been had he not endured the harassment and difficulties which he recounted and were otherwise documented, it is this psychologist opinion that Jon F. Turpin's emotional distress during his years in school was very significant. His assertion that he did not "feel safe" at the schools, particularly after being injured by other students, is deemed to be a reasonable response for a bright young adolescent boy. His expectation of supervision and protection from teachers and administrators, particularly once he brought his distress to their attention, appears very reasonable and appropriate.

While Jon F. Turpin's ADHD, "mouthy" immaturity and precocious verbal abilities may have contributed to his being a target for older adolescents, he and his parents presented a history of attempts to resolve the difficulties within the school setting. When these attempts at resolution were not only unsuccessful, but perhaps led to

IME Report
5-27-2009

reprisals against Jon, the sense of fairness and safety which his parents attempted to teach him, along with his sense of personal power were severely impacted.

Although Jon acknowledges that his early behavior was at times immature in his response to the physical and verbal harassment, his experience and lack of support from the school administration and many teachers has had a major impact on his personality development and emotional disposition. Specifically, Jon has become very alienated toward many authority figures, which has very likely contributed to familial difficulties. John's reports of overaggressive feelings in response to difficulties or frustrations are very likely related to his feelings of powerlessness and frustration which he experienced in middle school and high school.

Conclusions and Recommendations:

It is the opinion of the psychologists with a high degree of psychological certainty that the multiple instances of physical and verbal harassment while in Lincoln Middle School and Lincoln High School caused Jon F. Turpin marked feelings of vulnerability, loss, victimization and humiliation along with embarrassment and physical trauma at the time of the several physical attacks upon Jon. At the time of the evaluation, Jon F. Turpin continued to have significant emotional responses, anger and reaction formation in the form of aggressive responsiveness and difficulties with authority figures.

In order for Jon F. Turpin to attempt to gain a sense of emotional stability and safety, along with behavioral and emotional coping mechanisms, it is a recommendation of this psychological evaluation that he participate in individual psychotherapy. It is recommended that a seasoned and experienced cognitive behavioral psychologist be employed to work with Jon to learn important coping mechanisms and decrease his intense feelings of anger and emotional overreaction. While it is possible for Jon F. Turpin to be successful in many aspects of his life without this therapy, his interpersonal and intrapersonal abilities will likely cause him important difficulties in his future.

Dear Western Wayne School Board,

This letter is to inform you of our request to file a formal complaint of harassment against our son Jacob Payne, as well as our son Jordan Payne, who attends 11th grade at Lincoln High School, my husband Brad and myself. Our son Jacob is 12 years old and is a 7th grade student at Lincoln Middle School.

The following are only the most recent harassment incidents that have taken place since 04/18/07 and are still continuing at this time.

Individuals involved in harassment complaint;
John Engle, Middle School Principal
Donna Stajkowski, 7th Grade Pre-Algebra Teacher
Connie Pitcher, 7th Grade Language Arts Teacher
Stacey Hartsock, Teacher's Aide
Terry Reese, School Psychologist
Amy Engle, High School Math Teacher

1.) Refusal To Administer Educational Evaluation Upon Parental Request

- A. On April 18, 2007, during a "General Education Intervention," I requested an Educational Evaluation for Jacob. The 6th Grade team of teachers, Mr. Engle, and Elizabeth Gibbs informed me, that an Educational Evaluation would not be done because it was believed that Jacob could do the work required.
- B. I was also told that Jacob was just being lazy. This determination was made with the knowledge that Jacob was previously eligible for special services in Elementary School and that Jacob had failed his ISTEP Testing in 3rd, 4th, 5th and again in 6th grade.
- C. Jacob's grades during the 6th grade school year continued to decline. During Jacob's 6th grade school year, Jacob was continuously given detentions, brought into meetings and yelled at by his teachers until he cried, and literally told that he was "LAZY." At the end of the school year, I received notice that Jacob would be retained in the 6th grade. I then sought out Independent Educational Evaluation that was done over the summer. (SEE ATTACHMENT "A")(Elizabeth Gibbs' handwritten note dated 8-8-07)

2.) Unprofessional Behavior by Middle School Principal, John Engle

- A. On 08/08/07, after testing was completed, I took the results to John Engle for review. I requested that he overturn the retention at the advise of Dr. Ken McCoy, who had administered the testing. At this time, I also requested an appointment to determine eligibility based on these test results. On 09/14/07 (one month and 6 days later) I was still unable to receive an appointment time for eligibility determination. Brad & I went to Mr. Engle's office to again request an appointment. He told us, "YOU ARE JUST TRYING TO GET JACOB A FREE RIDE!" When I asked him what he meant by this, he replied, "LETTING JACOB

NOT TURN IN HIS WORK, TURN HIS WORK IN LATE, OR DO WHATEVER HE WANTS." He also said that Jacob needed to, "show a little initiative."

B. During a meeting on 11/29/07, Mr. Engle informed us that he had not seen Jacob's IEP. He stated that, "I don't have to deal with it!"

C. See point 5,

- a. Lag time in questioning Mrs. Pitcher, and allowing her to leave the building before proper investigation.
- b. Jacob was told he could not call home until 3:00 because "your mom is going to be very upset."
- c. Questioning only one witness/child

3.) Reporting Suspicion of Child Abuse to Child Protection Agency

On 09/24/07, exactly 1 week after a letter was sent to Dr. Mahon addressing ongoing problems at the Middle School, School Psychologist, Terry Reese met with Jacob to administer some small testing on Executive Function Disability. During this meeting, Mrs. Reese also questioned Jacob as to whether he took any prescription medication, to which he said, "no." She then asked him if he took any other medicine. He told her that he sometimes took Benadryl when he had trouble sleeping. I later learned that this information was reported to Child Protective Services for investigation. This was a very unreasonable and irresponsible leap to judgment on the part of the faculty. If, I had been informed of any suspicion, I could have had Jacob's pediatrician clear up any uncertainties. (Which he did after CPS was called.) (SEE ATTACHMENT "B") These are very serious allegations, and some level of professionalism should have been used.

4.) Breach of Confidentiality

Mrs. Amy Engle approached our son, Jordan, who is in 11th grade, on 09/25/07. She told Jordan that she knew that Jacob was having trouble getting his homework done, and that maybe if he (Jordan) would take his homework home and do it in front of Jacob, that he would be a good role model, and maybe Jacob would do his homework too.

5.) Physical Battery by Connie Pitcher

On 10/18/07, Jacob called from school to inform us that Mrs. Pitcher had shoved him in the school hallway. This matter is still pending with regard to criminal charges but the way the incident was handled by John Engle needs reviewed. Jacob was not allowed to call home until 3:00 p.m., although this incident happened at 1:10 p.m. The police were not called to investigate and the teacher left the building before any investigation could be done. Only one student was questioned immediately following incident. This student (Daniel Sittler) said that he DID witness Jacob being shoved.

6.) Continuous detentions as a result of learning disability. (SEE ATTACHMENT "D")

7.) Harassment by Stacey Hartsock

- A. On 11/13/07, Stacey Hartsock, teacher's aide, was speaking with Britney Brandt about one of Jacob's worksheets when Jacob overheard her say, "Don't bother explaining it to him, he probably wouldn't understand it anyway!" "He's being STUPID today!" Jacob reported this to Mr. Engle who later told me that he had investigated the incident and concluded that it was unfounded. He would not give us any further details due to the seriousness of the allegation and instructed us that it was "now a personnel issue." No further explanation was given.

- B. Approximately 2 hours later, Mrs. Hartsock had to redirect Jacob to get back on task. She told him that if he did not get back on task, he would have to go to In-School Suspension. He elected to go to ISS because he was so very upset by the day's events.
- C. Then, Mrs. Hartsock followed Jacob into the hallway and continued to argue with him about his accusation of calling him stupid. Jacob was so upset that he had to leave school.
- D. On 11/14/07, Mrs. Hartsock again had to redirect Jacob to get on task during Pre-Algebra class. She again threatened to send him to ISS.
 - a. Jacob again called to come home due to anxiety.

At Jacob's case conference, all of Jacob's teacher's were made aware of his learning disability, "Other Health Impaired" due to ADHD. They were also made aware that Jacob is exhibiting extreme anxiety and depression with regard to problems at school. (SEE IEP-ATTACHMENT "E") Why, then, is Jacob receiving detentions and harassment due to redirecting and not being on task? (ATTACHMENT "D")

8.) Harassment by Donna Stajkowski

- A. 10/09/07 During a case conference to determine eligibility, Dr. Linda Ronald, as well as, Terry Reese were trying to explain why there were discrepencies with regard to findings of ADHD in Jacob's test results. Mrs. Stajkowski was extremely unprofessional when she laughed out loud and boldly said, "DOES HE HAVE ADHD OR DOESN'T HE? This case conference was so unprofessional and filled with anger by the faculty, that Dr. Ronald and I walked out and had to reschedule that meeting at a later time.
- B. 10/29/07, Mrs. Stajkowski would not accept homework that was done while Jacob was absent, therefore resulting in a zero for 2 worksheets. These work sheets were done, but because no one checked Jacob's agenda on that day, it did not get turned in within Mrs. Stajkowski's timeframe.
- C. 11/08/07 Points deducted from homework. (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- D. 11/12/07 Points deducted from homework. (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- E. 11/13/07 Received E-Mail from Mrs. Brandt on behalf of Mrs. Stajkowski, stating the first of three allegations that "Jacob's homework problems were in my handwriting instead of Jacob's. (SEE ATTACHMENT "F")
- F. 11/13/07 Points deducted from homework. (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- G. 11/14/07 Points deducted from homework. (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- H. 11/15/07, Mrs. Stajkowski yelled at Jacob in front of the class and said, "Your Mom should not be doing your homework for you!"

- I. 11/16/07, Mrs. Stajkowski e-mailed me and, again, accused me of doing Jacob's homework. (SEE ATTACHMENT "G")
- J. 11/16/07, Refusal to let Jacob take his testing in a quiet room (SEE ATTACHMENT "G")
- K. 11/19/07 Points deducted from homework (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- L. 11/20/07 Points deducted from homework (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- M. 11/20/07 I went to the school to inquire as to why points were deducted from Jacob's completed homework, Mrs. Stajkowski gave 3 contradicting explanations as to why this was done. (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- N. 11/20/07 Mrs. Stajkowski exhibited a lack of professionalism when she snatched up the worksheets when I questioned her explanations. She stormed out of her classroom. I followed her to Mr. Engle's office where she presented him the worksheets and told him to handle the "problem."
- O. 11/21/07 Received e-mail from Mrs. Brandt, at the request of Mrs. Stajkowski, explaining why points had been deducted. Again, accusation was made that Jacob's homework was not in his own handwriting.
- P. 11/26/07 Mrs. Stajkowski snatched away Jacob's in-five paper from him while he was working on it.
 - a. She also instructed Mrs. Hartsock, in front of the entire class, to deduct points from Jacob's homework.
 - b. Jacob told Mrs. Stajkowski that he was still working on it when she took it away. Her only reply was, "yes, I know." No further explanation was given
- Q. 11/26/07 Points deducted from homework. (SEE COMPLAINT/ATTACHMENT "C")
- R. 11/29/07 Again, Mrs. Stajkowski snatched away Jacob's in-five paper from him after approximately only 2 minutes of working on it, resulting in Jacob sitting for the additional 3 minutes with nothing to do. No explanation was given as to why.
- S. 11/29/07 During a meeting with Mr. Engle, Mrs. Stajkowski, my husband and myself, Mrs. Stajkowski stated that her new rule of deducting points for not completing the in-five was only done to Jacob's 7th period class.

During this period of time, Jacob was experiencing vomiting at school as a result of extreme anxiety due to continued school situations, such as teachers yelling at him, giving detentions almost daily, not being able to keep up with workload, etc.

All of these incidents have greatly added to the anxiety and depression that Jacob has been experiencing. A lot of time and money have been spent to enlist the help from a child psychologist, Dr. Linda Ronald, to help Jacob deal with his anxiety manifested from school situations.

Jacob's grades have greatly improved recently and given him the confidence that he so desperately needed. BUT, this improvement continues to be sabotaged on many levels by the middle school faculty.

In the future, I hope that our school professionals will try to encourage all students to succeed to the best of their abilities and not put up roadblocks at every attempt to achieve that goal.

These continued problems have taken a lot of time and expense, not only for Jacob, but also on our part, Dr. Linda Ronald's, East Central Special Services, Lincoln Middle School Faculty and Administration, as well as our friends & family. This time should have been better spent, teaching our son.

Sincerely,

Bradford & Virginia Payne

Good afternoon, Jon.

I continue to receive documents from you that I have not reviewed, nor will I review them. I will be leaving Jordan Law in the next few weeks. I will not be taking on any new clients.

I suggest you contact another law firm and provide the documents you have attempted to share with me to progress in the potential protective order(s).

This email confirms that I do not represent you in the possible protective orders or any other pending legal matter.

Thanks,

Sam

Dear Mr. Battistone,

The purpose of this documentation at this time was to have attorney/client privilege and for safekeeping.

However: For legal clarification, since you won't be reviewing them, neither may anyone else at Jordan Law, nor anyone else the practice might be able to provide them to in perpetuity unless another attorney at Jordan Law was to take this case.

This is not an assumption that this would occur, but merely legal clarification regarding this data and these documents.

If you have access to any of these files, they must no longer be accessed, if any copies were retained they must immediately be destroyed, and if any copies or access was provided to others this access must be removed, and any copies retrieved and destroyed.

I apologize for this follow up email, but this legal clarification is necessary.

Thank you again, Sam, and with utmost respect,

Jon F. Turpin

Permanent Residency VISA Recommendation Letter: Jerry Moore

The Immigration Officer, Immigration New Zealand, New Zealand,

I'm writing to you in regards to Jerry Moore and Janelle McNeil, and to give my utmost support for their relationship and to request sincerely that you consider providing Jerry Moore his Permanent Residency VISA.

Jerry Moore and I grew up together in a small town called Cambridge City, Indiana in the United States and I've had the personal blessing of knowing him nearly my entire life, and watched his and Janelle's love grow.

We've had our personal journey together as friends, I'd call him akin to family or a brother. I've always known Jerry to be a man of character, who truly commits and follows his heart, and Jerry and Janelle have a true connection.

Despite the distance, I've had the pleasure of hearing about, then seeing the growth of their relationship as Jerry and Janelle dedicated their time to one another over the last 5 years, first online, then as Jerry moved to New Zealand.

After knowing Jerry most of my life, and having the pleasure to talk with Janelle, I know their relationship is genuine and true and I've never seen him so happy. Please allow their love to flourish together by giving Jerry this opportunity for a VISA.

Pretty big news!

A couple of milestones toward my goal of travelling abroad. First, passport! Took some time to get the documents and money together for this, and I couldn't have done it without the financial help of some really rad friends. Just a couple of steps away from being ready to travel.

One of those steps is to save up about $5000. Thanks to [redacted], I heard about a pretty sweet job in Greenfield, and am on track to save the required amount. It's night shift, but it pays exceedingly well.

Won't forget to pay back the people that have helped me along the way, directly, or by simply being a part of getting me where I am now. Love you guys. Hoping to get [redacted] over here to meet everyone asap.

Sincerely,
Jon F. Turpin
